ARC Ohio Implements New HIV Patient-Centered Care Model

For three decades we've dreamed about a cure for HIV/AIDS. While we're not there yet, we have almost the next best thing. Today, with early diagnosis and retention in our current treatment options, individuals living with HIV can expect to live long lives.

Viral suppression is our highest goal for HIV treatment. Achieving HIV viral suppression means that the person's immune system is intact, they will remain healthy, have a near normal life expectancy, and are up to 96 percent less likely to transmit the virus. However, in spite of these advances, 20 percent of those living with HIV in the U.S. are unaware of their status. Among those who have been diagnosed, only 24 percent have achieved suppressed viral loads.

This tells us that many people are still not testing for HIV, they are not properly linked to treatment when they do test positive, and they are not retained in care. These facts have completely shifted our nation's strategies for reaching and treating people living with HIV/AIDS.

To be on the cutting edge of care, in October 2012 ARC Ohio opened its first Medical Center and Pharmacy in Columbus' Short North neighborhood. Our Center adopts the best-practices model of AIDS Resource Center of Wisconsin, whose patients have achieved a 77 percent viral suppression rate and the lowest HIV-related death rate in the U.S. The ARC Ohio Medical Center is a unique HIV patient-centered model that integrates medical, mental health, pharmacy and social services in a single location to address the health care needs of patients and overcome the social determinants of health including poverty, hunger, discrimination and homelessness.

Care at the ARC Ohio Medical Center is customized for each patient. A highly skilled team of infectious disease and primary care physicians, nurse practitioners, medical case managers, mental health therapists, substance abuse counselors and pharmacists work together in an interdisciplinary approach to develop optimal treatment plans to keep our patients healthy.

The outcomes have been remarkable. Within the first six months, our Medical Center and Pharmacy surpassed their year-one enrollment goals. Patients are praising improved access to services, the wonderful facility, and superb care they are receiving. As a result, we are already showing significant increases in viral suppression rates among our patients. By the twelfth month, we project 475 patients enrolled, including many who previously had not been consistent in their treatment. There is no doubt: this model is transforming how we care for individuals living with HIV and contributing to longer, healthier lives.

One patient at a time.

ARC Ohio Pharmacy Services Open

Along with the opening of the ARC Ohio Medical Center, an onsite full-service pharmacy was established as an important component of the new model of care as well as earned income. The economic recession and subsequent recovery have challenged many nonprofit agencies and healthcare providers to meet a growing demand for services. For ARC Ohio, the challenge is to serve an ever-increasing number of HIV patients in the face of reduced private sector and government funding. With 82 percent of ARC Ohio patients uninsured and 77 percent living in poverty, reimbursements do not fully cover the costs for medical care and other services. A new revenue stream was needed so ARC Ohio would thrive despite the challenges to the nonprofit and healthcare sectors.

The ARC Ohio Pharmacy opened in November 2012. This "best practices" model helps ensure that our patients have access to life-saving medications while generating mission-related income to contribute to ARC Ohio's financial strength and sustain its services throughout Ohio. While physically co-located with our Short North Medical Center, the pharmacy serves patients statewide through mail-order delivery.

The ARC Ohio Pharmacy prioritizes outstanding customer service, easy access to medications, and personalized patient counseling to increase adherence. The pharmacy reached its 12-month enrollment goal of 300 patients in just four months, demonstrating that it is filling unmet needs as well as prescriptions.

Open to the public, 100 percent of the proceeds from the ARC Ohio Pharmacy are invested to support and expand ARC Ohio medical, testing, prevention, and supportive services not adequately supported by government grants or private fundraising revenues. With this entrepreneurial business model, patients and the general public are motivated to fill their prescriptions at the ARC Ohio Pharmacy because they know they are helping people living with HIV and prevention services across Ohio. Our model has been lauded by the corporate, philanthropic, financial, and nonprofit sectors for its sound business strategy and likelihood to succeed.

Transforming Our Image

The past year has brought many changes, including the introduction of a new logo and brand identity. This new identity has helped launch the transformation of ARC Ohio to a statewide care organization at the forefront of comprehensive HIV care and prevention. As part of this change we have adopted the following beliefs:

- We believe that AIDS' days are numbered, a day which will come sooner if we test and treat as many in Ohio as we can.
- We believe that a life with HIV can be more full of hope, health, and honor than of submission, sickness, and shame.
- We believe in treating the whole person—physically, emotionally, and socially.
- We believe that sometimes we need to be fearless and firm to make things fair in an unfair world.

As we move forward our Vision is to surround those we serve with holistic care, support and vital services to meet their total needs. We will continue to provide a Voice for people impacted by HIV/AIDS in our communities. And we will focus on Victory when testing and treating to defeat HIV/AIDS.

AIDS RESOURCE CENTER OHIO

Vision. Voice. Victory.

Dear Friends,

We are living in a time of extraordinary transformation. Or, more accurately, a convergence of multiple transformations.

Healthcare reform is bringing sweeping changes, the full impact of which is not yet known. The nonprofit and healthcare sectors are challenged to remain viable in the face of economic challenges, and shifting public and private support.

And, remarkably, we've reached a point nearly inconceivable until recently. Today, with early diagnosis and retention in treatment options currently available, individuals with HIV can reach viral suppression, giving new hope for long, healthy lives and much less risk of transmitting the virus.

All these factors are transforming our nation's strategies for reaching and treating people living with HIV/AIDS.

ARC Ohio has been undergoing strategic transformation, as well. Our recent consolidations and mergers have brought greater efficiencies, enhanced capacities, stronger financial health, and more robust services. To be on the cutting edge of care, especially for those not currently in treatment, last year we opened the first ARC Ohio Medical Center in Columbus. At the same time, we introduced the full-service ARC Ohio Pharmacy, dedicated primarily to providing medications for those living with HIV, but also open to the public to raise mission-based, entrepreneurial earned income to sustain our statewide services. Already, the medical center and pharmacy are exceeding our expectations for patient enrollment and, most importantly, clinical outcomes, including increased viral suppression rates.

Today AIDS Resource Center Ohio is the state's premier provider of a comprehensive, holistic, and coordinated response to HIV, from prevention to diagnosis and treatment. Last year we assisted more than 4,000 people with HIV on their journey to better health. Thousands of others were reached with testing and prevention services. Our size and programmatic breadth now make us one of the leading HIV/AIDS service organizations in the nation.

We hope you will celebrate our progress and the care we have provided for so many, thanks to your support. And we urge you to continue your commitment to the vision, voice and victory we bring to thousands of Ohioans.

Sincerely,

William J. Hardy

Christopher Knicely

"I had repeated remissions into mania and schizophrenia in January 2009. I was at death's door."

As a professional in the healthcare industry, Christopher Knicely never expected that he would be diagnosed with HIV. Yet in 2005, Christopher's health began declining after a motor vehicle accident and it wasn't long before he was given his diagnosis. But his physical health was not the only thing putting his life in danger.

Like half of all persons living with HIV, Christopher was also struggling with serious emotional and mental health challenges. It was these problems that made it extremely difficult for him to take his medications properly and jeopardized his health and treatment.

When Christopher needed help he turned to ARC Ohio. "Physically HIV can be controlled by medications, but the mental anguish that comes along with it cannot be written off or ignored. It never leaves."

Integrated care is the core of the holistic, HIV patient-centered model at the ARC Ohio Medical Center. Like Christopher, all ARC Ohio Medical Center patients have access not just to medical care, but to counseling, support groups, harm reduction addictions treatment, case management, financial aid, housing assistance, and other services that contribute to optimal health outcomes.

Without ARC Ohio, Christopher believes he might not be with us today, "ARC Ohio kept me alive. It gave me a lot of clarity and kept me going and fighting for my total health." Now Christopher is leading a successful life as an EMT and his viral load is undetectable.

"It's not just a simple pill a day, there is so much more involved."

Prevention Spotlight

In Ohio and across the U.S., gay/bisexual men still account for two-thirds of all new HIV infections. This is especially true among young men-who-have-sex-with-men (MSM) of color. Columbus now ranks 21st among U.S. cities for new HIV infections. Every 22 hours, someone in Central Ohio is newly-infected with HIV.

ARC Ohio's prevention and testing activities focus on populations at highest risk for HIV, especially gay and bisexual men. In Columbus, Dayton and Toledo, we implemented the Mpowerment Program to build community and wellness among young MSM. Developed by the University of California San Francisco Center for AIDS Prevention Studies, this evidence-based program has been called the most effective behaviorally-based prevention model in the nation. Dayton's Mpowerment Program has received national recognition for its success, and has been cited as a "model program" by UCSF CAPS.

Our Greater Columbus Mpowerment Center (GCMC) is funded by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention to reach young black and Latino MSM in Central Ohio.

"MPowered people make healthier choices!"

Ohio AIDS Coalition

The Ohio AIDS Coalition (OAC), a division of AIDS Resource Center Ohio (ARC Ohio), has undergone a year of evolution; one that has simultaneously cultivated the development of its role within the larger community, and reinforced the core of its identity. OAC has used its merger with ARC Ohio as an opportunity to maximize the efficient use of its resources, integrate its programs, optimize collaborative efforts, and restructure its programming.

As the public policy division of ARC Ohio, OAC has maintained its mission and objectives and synchronously provided programming opportunities throughout the state for Ohioans living with HIV/AIDS as well as health professionals. Over the past year ARC Ohio's advocacy efforts have included:

- Full Implementation of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act
- Open Access throughout the Ohio Medicaid Pharmacy and Therapeutics Committee review of anti-retroviral medications
- Expansion of Ohio Medicaid to 138% of the Federal Poverty Level
- Access to Syringe Exchange (House Bill 92)

ARC Ohio's impact has reached thousands throughout Ohio communities. As OAC continues to evolve advocacy, empowerment, leadership and networking people to care will remain at the forefront as we make strides to serve the needs of people living with and affected by HIV in Ohio.
